The solar park near Schiphol that is causing issues for pilots due to sunlight being reflected into their eyes has been ordered to be partly removed by a judge in Haarlem. Schiphol had initiated summary proceedings against the owner of the solar park, De Groene Energie Corridor.

Why is Schiphol Airport shutting down a third of its solar panels?

A third of the 230,000 solar panels installed next to the A9 motorway and Schiphol airport must be removed because they are creating glare that blinds pilots, judges have ruled. At certain times of the year, sunlight reflecting off the panels is so intense that pilots are temporarily unable to see, prompting runway closures at the airport.

What happens if Schiphol refuses to remove solar panels?

If the owner of the solar panels that are blinding pilots approaching Schiphol's Polderbaan refuses to remove them, the damages could amount to around 300 million euros, insiders told the Telegraaf. Schiphol will then have to close the runway again during certain times of day from the end of August.

According to KLM, closure of runways leads to millions of euros in damage a day. The solar park near Schiphol that is causing issues for pilots due to sunlight being reflected into their eyes has been ordered to be partly removed by a judge in Haarlem.

Why is Schiphol suing De Groene Energy Corridor?

Schiphol had initiated summary proceedings against the owner of the solar park, De Groene Energie Corridor. The airport feels that the entire solar park is a danger to flight safety, and was angered by the decision from the judge in the District Court for Noord-Holland, as they feel this partial victory does not actually solve the issue.
