BEIJING, Oct 14 (Reuters) - Chinese solar stocks soared on Tuesday as state media reported that authorities were planning to strengthen controls on solar production capacity, as the industry faces a glut of supply that has driven prices unsustainably low.

Is there a spatiotemporal map of material stock in China's solar power plants?

To address the aforementioned gaps, we present an integrated framework combining diverse data sources including RS, GIS, and material intensity databases, to perform high-resolution spatiotemporal mapping of material stock in China's solar power plants from 2010 to 2019 at the solar power plant level.

Which raw materials are used in solar power plants in China?

Furthermore, to leverage the material in-use stock, we estimated the installed capacity using a GIS-based assessment method and quantified the four key and valuable raw materials (Al, Cu, Ag, and silicon (Si)) at the solar power plant level in China.

How much centralized solar power plant capacity does China have?

China's installed centralized solar power plant capacity comprises over 60 % of the total installed capacity encompassing both centralized and distributed PV systems (National Energy Administration, 2023).

Is solar power a future for China?

In 2022, PV accounted for 70 % of total capacity additions of renewable power (348 GW), with China accounting for 44 % of global capacity (Sawin et al., 2022). PV still has significant potential for further development in China, particularly in regions abundant in solar energy resources like northwest China (Lin et al., 2022).
