Why is the Palestinian Authority forming a new cabinet?

The Palestinian Authority has announced the formation of a new Cabinet as it faces international pressure to reform. President Mahmoud Abbas, who has led the PA for nearly two decades and remains in overall control, announced the new government in a presidential decree on Thursday March 28, 2024.

Who appoints the Palestinian Prime Minister?

The Prime Minister is appointed by the President and not directly elected by the Palestinian Legislative Council (parliament) or Palestinian voters. Unlike prime ministers in many other countries, the Palestinian Prime Minister does not serve as a member of the legislature while in office.

What is the political structure of the Palestinian National Authority (PNA)?

The politics of the Palestinian National Authority (PNA) take place within the framework of a semi-presidential multi-party republic, with a legislative council, an executive president, and a prime minister leading the cabinet.

What is the Palestinian Legislative Council?

The legislature of the Palestinian Authority is the Palestinian Legislative Council, which is not to be confused with the Palestine National Council, which remains the national legislature of the Palestinian people as a whole.

What does a Palestinian Prime Minister do?

Unlike prime ministers in many other countries, the Palestinian Prime Minister does not serve as a member of the legislature while in office. Instead, the appointment is made independently by the ruling party. The Prime Minister is expected to represent the majority party or ruling coalition in the Legislative Council.

How is a Palestinian president elected?

The President is elected by popular elections. The last presidential election was the 2005 Palestinian presidential election. The Prime Minister is appointed by the President and not directly elected by the Palestinian Legislative Council (parliament) or Palestinian voters.
