How can Peru improve the renewable market?

Increasing global stress to achieve climate and renewable goals is pushing Peru to take initiatives to improve the renewable market. The declining costs of renewable technologies are becoming competitive with fossil fuel sources, and additional subsidies on renewables are driving the renewable market further.

How many hydropower plants are there in Peru?

Our nine hydropower plants in the country have a combined output of 450 MW of 100 per cent renewable energy. Statkraft's operations in Peru started in 2003 when SN Power, then owned by Statkraft and Norfund, purchased the company Cahua, which operated the Cahua, Pariac, Gallito Ciego and Arcata hydropower plants.

Is solar energy a good investment in Peru?

Solar energy has tremendous potential in Peru, which can be witnessed in the upcoming period. Although the government of Peru is exceptionally modest in terms of the renewable goal, with the aim of 5% by 2025, the government has launched several initiatives and schemes to encourage the growth of renewables commercially and residentially.

What are the new renewable projects in Peru?

According to General Directorate of Electricity (DGE) of the Ministry of Energy and Mines of Peru, three new renewable projects - Duna Wind Power Plant, Huambos Wind Power Plant, the Callao Biomass Power Plant, are set to be operational by the end of 2020, that will be adding significant capacity in the renewable sector of Peru.

What happened to SN Power Peru?

In 2014, Statkraft purchased an additional 7 per cent of the shares of Norfund, thus increasing its interest by 67 per cent of the company's total shareholding. After this purchase, SN Power Peru was renamed Statkraft Peru and took over the company's asset management.

How much energy does Peru generate per year?

In Peru, we generate approximately 2,500 GWh per year, which is equivalent to providing lighting for more than 1,800,000 Peruvian households. In the areas that we operate and indirectly influence, we have contributed to 53 communities and more than 30,000 beneficiaries through our Social Responsibility projects.
